It isn't strictly a free version of Photoshop, but it does offer a free version (up to 4 GB of storage space). However, if you want more than 4 GB of storage you'll need to upgrade to Elements Plus which costs £50 or £40 for students. If you're a beginner then Adobe's free trial is also a good choice. If you're a Mac user, you should download the latest version of Photoshop. Photoshop for Mac is a standalone app but the features it has are similar to Photoshop Elements. The biggest difference between the two is that Elements has a minimum version of Adobe's Creative Suite 8. Most of the time, you can use the free version of Elements to edit small images, so if you're looking to spend a day editing a low resolution picture then this is the one you should choose. Photoshop is the most popular and most-used image editor on the internet. Adobe's professional version is the standard for a good reason. Adobe Photoshop (we won't use Adobe Lightroom or Adobe Photoshop Express here) is probably the most powerful and most popular image editing program on the internet. Photoshop, and every other image editing program on the internet, have lots of different tools to help you edit images. Q: Reading specific lines from a text file containing multiple lines of data I have a text file that has "Money" and other numbers associated to it such as: abc money 123 four pqr money 23 three I want the money field and the number fields such as: abc 123 four pqr 23 three I want to read the file line by line but cut out only certain lines. I have looked around, but I'm stuck. EDIT: @edit - string line; ifstream my_file("E:\my_file.txt"); if(!my_file.is_open()) { printf("Error opening file "); getchar(); return 1; } while(my_file.good()) { getline(my_file,line); if(line.compare(line.substr(0,19)) == 0 || line.compare(line.substr(1,19)) == 0 || line.compare(line.substr(2,19)) == 0 || line.compare(line.substr(3,19)) == 0) { int num = stoi(line); } } A: Read the first 19 characters from the file into a std::string; you can use the substr() member function to get the specific part you are interested in. std::string line; ifstream my_file("E:\my_file.txt"); if(!my_file.is_open()) { printf("Error opening file "); getchar(); return 1; } while(my_file.good()) { getline(my_file,line); if(line.compare(line.substr(0,19)) == 0 || line.compare(line.substr(1,19)) == 0 || line.compare(line.substr(2,19)) == 0 || line.compare(line.substr(3,19)) == 0) { int num =

Q: Converting text box to image on click event of checkbox using JavaScript? In my form I have a text box and a check box. The user has to enter a number in the text box and a check box should be selected when the user clicks on the check box. Now what I am doing is that I am using JavaScript to convert the text box into an image when the user clicks the check box. Here is my code: Here is the JavaScript code: function checkthis(id) { var val = $("#" + id).val(); if (val!=" " &&!val.match(/[a-z]$i)) { $("#" + id).css("background-image", "url("); } else { $("#" + id).val(val); $("#" + id).css("background-image", "url("); } } The text box converts into an image and another problem is that the text box does not convert back to a text box when the check box is checked. So any idea how to resolve these issues? A: Just return false on your onclick and not do an else statement. JSfiddle
