On the top left of the dialog is a clock. If you are not notified your web browser is not supported. Notify if you need a file with the name on the left To do this, select the All Applications tab, double-click Gmail, and click OK. Get a new Gmail account. Note: Contact your web host for instructions and set your browser to refuse cookies if you don't want to receive these messages. Click Add Account > Contact Web Host > Finish, then click Close to close the Add Account dialog. Click Edit Inbox > Preferences. Tip: If you have a Gmail account on a different computer, you can use this computer to send mail instead of your main mail client. The photos you send are no longer in your Gmail account, but instead have been moved to the account you're logged into. Click Advanced Settings, select Folder Auto-Discovery, and use the options to change how Gmail updates your folder. When you're done, click OK to close the Edit Inbox dialog. To send emails from your main Gmail account, click Account Settings, scroll to the bottom of the dialog, and select Send mail as. Click Edit Inbox > Settings. Click Forward and choose Forward, then select the boxes for Inbox, Sent, Spam, or Trash. Note: If you have multiple Gmail accounts, you may want to select a different folder to store your emails in each account. Click Save and then click Close to close the Accounts dialog. Click Tools, then click Options, and click Mail Options under E-mail Options. The Windows Live Mail import window will open. Click Advanced, click Import. Click Start Mail (for Windows Vista, click Start>All Programs>Windows Live Mail>Mail). Click Advanced, click Import, and then click Next. Click Import, and then click OK. To connect to Gmail on the server side, select File > Options > Advanced > Turn on OpenPGP support. To configure your favorite Internet search provider, click Options > Advanced > Turn on the Use other search providers, and then click Add. When you're done, click Save to close the Options dialog, and then click OK to close the Options dialog. To add a contact, click Contacts. To add or remove contacts, click Contacts > Contacts in the left pane. On the left side of the Outlook window, double-click the account where you want to send the
